

The night before Christmas.

THRILLER

The story is the story of a man who dies on the night before Christmas. Mickael who is a member of the FBI was sent for a mission to France, he hasn't seen his wife Spencer for three months. He comes home for Christmas, when a murder happens... who is dead and why?

It happened the night before Christmas; he came back for the party. Mickael, a member of the FBI, came back from this mission; he hadn't seen his wife Spencer. She was very happy, she had prepared the house for Christmas; it had been three months since she last saw her husband, she was wearing a long red dress. The fireplace was on, candles too, the Christmas tree was prepared, the gifts were on the floor, dinner was ready, everything was OK.

It was eleven p.m., Spencer was in her kitchen when she heard the wireless:

- "A prisoner who was in France was led to the prison of New York by a member of FBI, escaped the prison this night at ten p.m. He has killed ten people in France and he is very mentally-challenged. Close your doors. The police is looking for him, when we have information we'll give it to you and Merry Christmas! "

Spencer was terrified and she didn't have any news from her husband. She closed her door very quickly and she put her dinner on the table when she heard the key turn in the lock, she took a knife and she went to the door; slowly the door opened, she heard nothing, she was afraid: a hand switched the light and a foot entered in the house very slowly; she doesn't know what she can do, a head got inside and she saw her husband. She back-off, she was reassured. She jumped in her husband arms she gave him a lot of kisses and she put her knife down.

They went to the living room she put off the wireless and her husband explained to her, his mission; he was in France to arrest a murderer and he took him to a prison in New York. She was very happy to see him. They were eating together. At the end of dinner she went to the bathroom at the first floor. She heard deafening scream from Mickael; she ran to the bedroom and she took a gun. She's anxious she heard the door bang shut, she screamed the name of her husband; nothing. She doesn't know what she can do. She goes down the stair slowly with a lot of emotion, she doesn't know what is going on down stairs; when she arrives at the bottom, she sees the dead body lying on the floor. There is a paper on the dead body on which it is written:

- "I'll be your wife's turn soon".

She goes to the door; she looks outside. She doesn't know what she can do, she is crying, she screams a lot; after she calls the police; the police arrives at her house ; the ambulance too; she stays inside next to her husband.

But her husband hadn't told what had happened in France, when he had arrested the man, he had said:

- "If I can escape from the prison I'll killed you and the year after, I'll kill your wife".
