Léane NAVINER

Maylie LOUREIRO

While our trip in Normandy with the European section from May 9th to May 12th, we did many activities such as : visiting Granville on the first day after arriving (Granville was the city we have been accommodated at the CNRG ; « Granville Regional Nautical Center »), crossing the bay of the « Mont Saint Michel » on the second day and visiting the place, going to an england island named Jersey on the third day and finally on the last day we went on catamaran for a two hours session before taking the bus to go back to Taverny.

We choose to talk about the third day ; the day we went to Jersey because for us, it's the final point of the whole year in European class ; having the possibility to speak English with native speakers and realizing our improvement in English since the beginning of the year.

We took the bus to go to Saint-Malo (city from Brittany) from where we took the ferry (the name of the company was Condor Ferries). All of this was pretty long but it was for great reasons ! After that, we took the bus, unfortunately, there was no upper floor and the bus wasn't red ! We made a tour of the island, we finished the trip near a restaurant we went to eat. Fish&Chips is probably an unavodable there. It was a nice place, the decor was pretty and well arranged. We had a big part of the afternoon on freetime to sightsee, shopping or even just doing nothing. We personally visited the city where we ate at lunch and at the same time visited the…stores ? Just before to go back to the continent the weather started to get rough and rain came, what would be the United Kingdom without the weather after all ? That day was a great day, we discovered about Jersey and a little part of the English culture.

To sum up, this trip has been an enriching experience as well as the rest of the year in the European section, we were happy to learn more about Shakespeare's language and its culture. We made a lot of memories that we're not ready to forget. If we had to do it once again, we wouldn't hesitate.